Emily spearheads RISO UK's corporate drive

RISO UK has appointed Emily Simpson to the role of National Corporate and Commercial Sales Manager.

Emily will be heading up a growing team of people who are spearheading the company's continuing drive into the corporate sector.

Emily said: "We already work with some of the most well-known companies in the UK, and it's my role to grow that clientbase further. Our printers can be found working hard in sectors ranging from logistics and healthcare, to communications and professional services."

Emily added: "When we explain to people the unique Total Cost of Ownership model that our devices offer, you can see they are immediately attracted by our proposition. There are huge opportunities for RISO and I'm privileged to be a part of shaping the position of RISO in the growing Corporate sector in the UK."

Known across the world for its innovative cutsheet inkjet printers, RISO is committed to developing devices that increase workflow and boost productivity, making them ideal for the business environment.

Tatsuo Murakami, RISO UK's Managing Director, said: "With new solutions and innovations, RISO UK has both consolidated its position in the education sector, and evolved and grown its market share in the corporate market.

"Emily and her team have an exciting mission to grow yet further that market share and together we will continue the RISO UK success story."
