

John Hugill joins RISO's growing corporate team

RISO UK has further signalled its ambitious drive into the corporate world with the appointment of corporate development manager John Hugill.

John joins the Elstree, Hertfordshire-based business after nearly 20 years in business to business sales roles, working with well-known companies such as Northgate PLC, BT, and Thomson Local Digital.

He joins shortly after the recruitment of Edward Rozario in a similar role and demonstrates RISO's ambition to grow and consolidate its position in the corporate sector.

John said: "RISO has carved out a presence in the business world, but is still largely known for its work in schools, hospitals and government. It's my role to use my experience, contacts and skills to spread that message further.

"I've worked with some great brands over the years, and I know that RISO's unique products set it apart from its competitors. I also know that businesses can invest in a RISO printer to help drive their businesses to new levels."

RISO is the pioneering cutsheet inkjet printer manufacturer that introduced duplicators to the market, and developed the world's fastest cutsheet inkjet printers.

Tatsuo Murakami, who heads up RISO in the UK, said: "I welcome John to the RISO team, and look forward to seeing him deliver the results that he has been able to achieve throughout his career to date."

For more about RISO, visit www.riso.co.uk.

ENDS

